Pay To Play

No, we won't. Still, we hope that you will. Oh, the irony.

Bending The Law

Music business could sometimes use a punch in the face.

Turn on the radio and listen to how commercial, professional songwriters of today puzzle their hits together with bits and pieces from half-known songs.

Sometimes it's just grand theft, sometimes it's also a good laugh.

All You Want

For some people, everything in life is a competition.

Abundance and luxury is the goal and purpose of everything.

About wanting everything, getting everything, making your way to the top with the least effort possible.

When The Cat's Away...

Don't let that old cat hold you back.

Ignore the gasbag and get your kicks while you can,

cause time passes quickly and chances are few.

Dopamine Junkie

Some people feed off of other people's failures.

Making big promises, still diminishing you at the same time to maintain control.

You're stuck in their web, spinning their wheel of torture.

Don't let them win, you'll soon be climbing the beanstalk.

Draw The Line

Every hundred years or so, all the people who experienced the devastating war and unanimously said: "this must never happen again", are gone.

New fools are born, delusive dictators take power and make history repeat itself.

Same mistakes are made by mankind over and over again.

With no lesson taken from the past, who'll be left to draw the line?

Dog Eat Dog

Johnny the Jinx can't get a job, but he's got a band called "Dog Eat Dog", struggling like so many before them. United they stand, they will never give up.

But who's that girl coming in, sayin' she's here to rock?

Give Me More

No dough, no show? Well, better go find your wallet, here's some piece of action you don't wanna miss.

Tried And True

Headache, toothache, heartache or anything else that hurts. What doesn't kill you...

Talk Of The Town

Those homeless people we see every day, what's their story? Here's a song about two homeless guys tired of being pushed around. They decide to set the city on fire and get rid of those rumours once and for all.

Two Things

An old idea for a previous album was given new lyrics and melodies and ended up as Two Things. About wanting to try everything just once before you die. Well, everything - except two things.

Same Old Story

You've been on the run for too long, letting others decide what you should do with your life. Time to defeat your life-long enemy. It might get rough.
